Day 1: Arrive Kiruna
Kiruna sits 145km north of the Arctic Circle — further north than most of Alaska. Arrive at Kiruna Airport and transfer to your hotel. The town itself is in the middle of a slow-motion relocation: Sweden's largest iron-ore mine has been undermining the original city centre for decades, so the whole town is being moved 3km east, street by street. It's an odd, fascinating backdrop to an Arctic adventure. Spend the evening settling in and getting your first look at a sky that, with luck, has green in it. Overnight in Kiruna.
Included: Private transfer, Kiruna Airport to hotel

Day 2: Dog Sled & Northern Lights Chase
The morning belongs to the huskies. Suited up in warm gear, take a 2–3 hour dog sledding tour through snow-covered forest, guided by an experienced musher — powerful Alaskan huskies pulling you along hand-groomed trails, with a warming stop at a tipi halfway round.
The evening is a different kind of pursuit. Board a minibus with Aurora Polaris and head out into the polar night, ranging up to 200km from Kiruna to find clear skies and active aurora. Your guide tracks live solar storm and weather data to maximise your chances — there are no guarantees with the Northern Lights, but this is as systematic as the hunt gets. Overnight in Kiruna.
Included: Dog Sled Adventure, 2–3 hours | Northern Lights Chase by minibus, approx. 4 hours

Day 3: ICEHOTEL & Jukkasjärvi
Head 17km east to Jukkasjärvi, where the Torne River is carved into art every winter. The ICEHOTEL — rebuilt entirely from ice and snow each year since 1989 — is the centrepiece: walk through the exhibition suites, each sculpted by a different artist, and note that the temperature inside stays around -5°C regardless of the weather outside. Your Sami guide from Scandinavian Sami Photoadventures then takes you to the village's old church (the oldest parts dating from 1607) and to Nutti Sami Siida to meet the reindeer herd. Overnight in Kiruna.
Included: Tour to ICEHOTEL & Jukkasjärvi

Day 4: Arctic Wildlife Safari by Snowmobile
A full day out with a Sami guide from Ofelaš Guideservice, riding modern snowmobiles through the montane forest near the Kalix River — prime winter grazing territory for moose. Scan the snow for tracks of wolverine, lynx, and hare; spot grouse at the tree line as the forest opens onto bare tundra. Your guide explains what reindeer herding actually looks like in the 21st century. The day ends with a late lunch of Sami dishes — reindeer in some form, almost certainly — as the polar twilight descends. Back to the hotel before dark falls completely. Overnight in Kiruna.
Included: Arctic Wildlife Safari by Snowmobile

Day 5: Kiruna to Abisko
Check out and transfer north through the Scandinavian fells to Abisko — a journey of roughly 100km that takes you deeper into the wilderness. Abisko sits on the southern shore of Lake Torneträsk, one of Sweden's largest lakes, in a landscape of bare peaks, birch forest, and almost no light pollution. The village is tiny; that's the point. Abisko National Park sits directly on your doorstep, and the Aurora Sky Station is 900 metres above you on the mountain. Settle in. Overnight in Abisko.
Included: Transfer from Kiruna to Abisko

Day 6: National Park Hike & Aurora Sky Station
Start the morning with a 2-hour guided hike through Abisko National Park — frozen river canyons, birch forest, panoramic views over Lake Torneträsk. The pace is relaxed; the terrain is genuinely Arctic, not a groomed trail.

That evening, ascend Mt. Nuolja by chairlift to the Aurora Sky Station at 900m. It was built here for a reason: Abisko sits in a microclimate pocket that gives it clearer skies than almost anywhere else in northern Scandinavia. The station runs from 9pm to 1am; your guide, chairlift, warm clothing and station access are all included. Overnight in Abisko.
Included: Morning hike in Abisko National Park | Aurora Sky Station Night Visit with return chairlift

Day 7: Free Day in Abisko
No agenda today. The national park trails are on your doorstep for anyone who wants more time in the landscape — snowshoeing and cross-country skiing can be arranged locally. Or do very little: Abisko is genuinely one of the quietest places in Europe and that silence is worth sitting in. The Aurora Sky Station runs nightly, so the evening still holds potential if the sky cooperates. Overnight in Abisko.

Day 8: Departure
Transfer back to Kiruna Airport for your onward flight. The drive takes around 90 minutes through the same landscape you arrived into — which looks completely different now that you know what's in it.
Included: Transfer from Abisko to Kiruna Airport
